

Resonate Now – November 2022

Hello everyone!

We hope you are well and enjoying our autumn programme of events, including concerts, arts activities and music projects.

In September, our Singing with Friends Choir gave a fabulous performance on stage at the Wigmore Hall, part of the Hall's Music for Life partnership programme with the Royal Academy of Music and our first in-person sharing event for over two years! It was a joyous occasion filled with spirited performances (including a café scene, flower dancing, summer rain) and moving solos that left us with a warm glow inside. We were treated to some beautiful poetry readings from our online choir members too. A video of the performance is available to watch online, please get in touch for more information.

We were also part of an exciting partnership event at the Wallace Collection on 2nd October to celebrate Silver Sunday, the national day for older people. Musicians from the Royal Academy of Music and Wigmore Hall filled the galleries with glorious sounds while participants enjoyed an afternoon of art, music-making and discussion curated around the themes in Rubens' painting, The Rainbow Landscape.

“The variety of activities, the creative stimulation – the art, the music, the description of the painting, the museum itself – all of it was incredible.” (participant feedback)
